Happy Halloween

1.	Noun
2.	Noun
3.	Noun - Plural
4.	Noun - Plural
5.	Adverb
6.	Noun
7.	Noun
8.	Adjective
9.	Location
10.	Noun
11.	Repeated Noun
12.	Noun
13.	Part Of Body
	Part Of Body
15.	Adjective
	Repeated Noun
17.	Repeated Noun

Happy Halloween

Which

The thing to remember, when you go to
Is hang strings of, high over your head,
So Noun - Plural and Noun - Plural won't come to call.
In fact,
You won't get many callers at all
'Cause Repeat Last Noun is Besides,
its success with creatures
Who visit distress on who read stories at night,
And sleep in their, without a
The thing to remember, when you go to
Is putting a Noun, at your Part of Body and your Part of Body,
'Cause witches and vampire bats are
And touching a sign like a Repeat Last Noun gives them hideous
Goosebumps and warts,
Hives, the welts and the itches,

nobody likes, even vampire bats and witches.
But try not to toss or to turn in your
If you kick off the crosses you're gonna wake the dead.
The thing to remember, when you go toRepeated Noun
Is watch out for goblins, who'll munch on your head.
What stops them is water, so ask for a glass,
Then pour it around, so the goblins can't pass.
Or else make a run for the bathroom and turn on the hot and cold faucets and watch goblins squirm.
As a last chance,
since goblins all fear running streams,
If you don't own a bathroom, dream water-filled dreams.
So, that's my advice.
Now, just turn off the light.
Hope you sleep well the next Halloween Night!

©2024 WordBlanks.com · All Rights Reserved.